TexMod is now a part of the Unreal Game Engine 4 release.Sweet-tasting products are available in various forms. For example, conventional fudge-type products include a sweetener such as sugar, while candy-type products include a sweetener such as sugar and/or corn syrup. Preferably, the sweetener used in such products contains no significant levels of acetic acid or flavorings such as synthetic cocoa, chocolate, coffee, and/or vanilla. In other words, the sweetener utilized in such products is free from acid and flavoring ingredients which impart a savory or unpleasant flavor to the finished product. Examples of conventional sweeteners which are utilized in such products include sugars such as white granulated sugar, brown sugar, sucrose, fructose, corn syrup solids, dextrose, maltose, malt syrup, and mixtures thereof. However, sweeteners can be characterized by their net sweetness and their propensity for crystallizing. Net sweetness refers to a measure of the sugars in the sweetener including water and dissolved minerals. Crystallization is a phenomenon that occurs when sweeteners, such as sugar, contain crystalline and non-crystalline structures. As a result, the majority of the sweetener particles are in the crystalline state, e.g., particles are crystalline rather than amorphous. The crystalline structure of the sweetener gives it a bitter or metallic taste. The net sweetness of a sweetener, therefore, will vary depending on its crystalline nature. In particular, the net sweetness of a sweetener is related to its inability to attract water molecules because of its crystalline nature. Sweeteners which are relatively unsweet have been formulated into a variety of products. For example, cyclamates, saccharin, and acesulfame
