based on some of the same algorithms that allow humans to learn languages quickly. Other techniques included are: - Fast-Forward and Rewind - Search and replace - Ignore word markups - Toolbars What can I see? Note that in order to use Caffeine, you will need to have Java installed on your system. The stand-alone version of Caffeine includes an automatic installer that downloads and installs Java on the user's computer. After Java is installed, the standalone Caffeine program will start and enable the system tray icon. This icon shows you the status of a number of advanced features: - Readings: displays the number of pages read so far. This shows you the progress of the program. - Caffeine: shows a status of the application. - Caffeine Options: allows you to customize the speed reading logic and some other minor parameters. - Preferences: allows you to modify some basic preferences. Installation Download the executable and extract it somewhere on your computer. When running the program, you will be prompted to Install the standalone version. If you have Java installed, it will work fine. If not, it will prompt you to install Java. Readings Caffeine keeps track of all your readings by default. It will show you the number of pages read so far in the status bar. While reading, press the Page Up key to fast-forward the text. Press Page Down to fast-rewind it. Note: Page Up and Page Down are meaningless if you are reading ebooks. Caffeine can be configured to ignore some types of page information (including the page number) when reading ebooks. You may need to customize this behavior if you are using your own custom or third-party ebooks. To avoid conflicting with third-party applications, if you read from locations other than the default location, you should specify a custom path for your readings. Just drag the text file you want to read to the 'Default Reading' folder.
